Royal Paper Products, Inc. Is Moving into its New Facility!

Leading industry supplier of over 1000 disposable products servicing the foodservice, hospitality and janitorial industries, announces it is pulling up roots and moving into its brand new facility, located in Exton, PA.

Coatesville, PA. – After 65 years in Coatesville, PA, Royal Paper Products, Inc. is moving into its brand new 160,000 sq. ft. facility, with their grand opening ribbon-cutting ceremony slated for June 13th. The modern facility is located on 22 verdant acres in Exton, PA, amply housing their 45 employees and providing 16,500 square feet of much needed office space.

“It is bittersweet moving after 65 years from where it all began, but we’re looking forward to having more space as we expand our line and continue to offer the finest disposable products with our signature customer service,” says David Milberg, CEO of Royal Paper Products, Inc. The multi-use manufacturing, converting, and distribution facility supplies over 1000 disposable products for the foodservice, hospitality and janitorial industries, nationwide.

“Back in 1949, we began manufacturing disposable beverage coasters in a garage in Coatesville, PA. The entrepreneurial spirit and family values that started this company continue to dominate our corporate culture,” explains Milberg.

From humble beginnings, Royal Paper Products grew in scope and vision, offering many iconic products for the foodservice and hospitality industry that are a part of Americana traditions.

“Most people don’t realize we were one of the first to introduce paper coffee and beverage coasters and wooden expendable items like toothpicks and club frills,” continues Milberg. “We were also one of the first to offer lobster bibs and conversational placemats like the Chinese Zodiac and children’s placemats that are now found in restaurants from coast to coast.”

Milberg is proud that their longtime employees, some who have been with the company for over 40 years, will be making the move as well. “We’re a company that views our employees as part of the Royal family and are proud of what we’ve achieved together thus far.”

He explains that their core values are reflected through giving back to their local communities, which is a long-standing tradition going back to the company’s inception.

“Our company culture reflects our deep-seated family values that pervade every facet of the company,” Milberg says. “We’re committed to supporting local organizations and youth sports programs that build healthy communities, as well as hospitals and groups that empower those who are disadvantaged, through donations, sponsorships and fundraisers.”

Although they are changing location, Milberg says they’ll continue to be mindful of their roots.

“Our company history is important to us, and we are sentimental as a family, so we will be replicating our brick façade which currently displays our company name in its original form. It will be prominently displayed in our new 3- story lobby, which will be a constant reminder of our historic roots, as we look forward to the future.”
